

Faubus Would Avoid Issues

Controversial

By DON MCKEE
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas appealed today to the Southern Governors' Conference to avoid controversial issues which he said could destroy the group's usefulness.

Faubus, chairman of the group, opened the first conference session in the wake of reports that a civil rights group would attempt to demonstrate here against proposed resolutions of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Wallace has said he would seek votes of censure on civil rights proposals and federal government policies.

Obviously aiming at Wallace's plan, Faubus told 12 other governors at the initial session: "It is my very decided conviction that we must not permit the conference to become a forum for controversial issues and an arena of contention."

Faubus said the conference is not a deliberative body and "we can settle no problems, we can bind no member of this conference."

"If we engage in debate over controversial issues we can cause division in the conference and perhaps destroy its usefulness."

As Wallace listened, Faubus referred specifically to controversy in the form of proposed resolutions. The Arkansas governor warned of "playing to the press."

Faubus said before the conference opened that he probably would announce his appointment to the resolutions committee Tuesday deadline for submitting resolutions will be noon Tuesday. Wallace's proposal could throw the conference into turmoil if the resolutions get to the floor.

Rozzell Favors Federal Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, said Saturday that Arkansas needed a large fund, broad-purpose measure which "will allow the states freedom to apply federal funds in any proportion they see fit to secure the facilities and services needed" for education.

The comment was in a prepared text of testimony Rozzell plans to give Tuesday before the House Subcommittee on Education in Washington.

For over a century, the text said, Arkansas and the South has been characterized by educational lags and deficiencies and by "special, economic and cultural problems peculiarly associated with low levels of education."

Rozzell said both areas needed "substantial" federal support.

House to Debate Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House opens its annual debate Tuesday on the foreign aid bill. Issues involving Indonesia and a projected steel mill for India are expected to generate considerable steam.

In the Senate, another spate of pro-and-con wordage is in prospect when a national debt limit bill reaches the floor Tuesday. As passed by the House, it would extend the present temporary debt limit of $309 billion to Nov. 30.

Trapped Since Tues., Miners Are Still Alive

By JAMES V. LAMB
HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Rescue workers lowered soup, medical supplies, head lamps and a requested cigar today to three coal miners trapped since Tuesday near the bottom of a 400-foot shaft.

"We're all okay," shouted David Fellin, 58, one of the trio, after a six-inch drill bit through the gangway where the men fled after the main shaft walls collapsed.

Contact was made just before midnight Sunday after they virtually had been given up for dead.

The next step is to bore a 28-inch hole to bring the men out. H. B. Charnbury, secretary of mines for the state of Pennsylvania, said it might take anywhere from a day to a week. It took 22 hours to dig the present shaft.

After the first contact, a microphone was lowered.

Fellin talked with his wife, Anna, and son, Joe.

"Dave, Dave," she shouted, "how are you?"

"Okay," he replied.

"Are you sure? Can you hear me? Are you sick or hurt?"

"I can hear you hollering all over. No I'm not sick or hurt."

Fellin reported he and Henry Throne, 28, were in one section and Louis Bova, 32, separated.

Shopping Premiums Now a Big Business: Mink Stole for 3 Wrappers—and $345

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If a man's hair is falling out, neither science nor money is usually of much help. Some 95 per cent of male baldness cases are permanent and incurable.

Kids who wear glasses formerly had no hopes of a professional baseball career. But today a dozen major leaguers wear specs.

The way to get rich is to dream up a new ice cream flavor that children will go for. Here are a few flavors that were tried and failed: prune, kumquat, licorice—and chile con carne.

Long wash day: Laundry was a big problem during California's gold rush in 1849. It had to be shipped to Hawaii, or sent back east, and often a miner had to wait six months to get a clean shirt.

Educators have always had a salary problem. In 1834 the first president of Pennsylvania College (now Gettysburg College) was paid only $500 and the use of a rent-free campus home.

Our quotable notables: "I always wished I could do something with my hands. Never could." — Joe Louis, ex-boxing champ.

Prosperity note: Sending away box tops has become a great American industry. But the premiums are getting bigger. Next month, a firm that produced deviled ham has announced it will return a mink stole certified to be worth $595 to lady shoppers who mail it three canned-ham wrappers—and $345.

Mother tongue: Americans and Britons use the same language but differ in their pronunciation of about 28 per cent of the words.

Incidentally, you must be at least 17 to get an automobile drivers license in England, but you can fly an airplane at any age you're able.

Maternal pride: Dorothy Sarnoff, strolling through the park, looked in a preambulator and remarked to the young mother that her baby had a beautiful face. "That's nothing," replied the mother. "You should see her pictures."

Odd laws: It's illegal to carry a concealed slingshot in Maryland. Or to turn a wild hare loose in Connecticut.

Worth remembering: "Destiny shapes our ends, but making ends meet is our own responsibility." — Arnold H. Glasow.

Moon Shot Might Cost $40 Billion

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

The launching of the three-man Apollo spaceship toward the moon late in this decade will climax the most expensive peacetime venture ever undertaken by man.

Estimates of the total cost range from $20 billion to $40 billion.

The fat price tag was under scored last week when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced signing of the largest contract it has ever negotiated, North American Aviation Inc. received the $934.4 million plan for initial development and production of the Apollo craft's two major sections, the command and service modules.

The command module will house the three astronauts en route to the moon and during the return trip. The service module will contain propulsion, power and other supporting equipment.

Earlier, NASA signed a $387.9 million contract with Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. to develop third section of the Apollo ship, the lunar excursion module which two of the pilots will ride to the lunar surface while the main body of the ship orbits the moon.

Both contracts cover work until mid 1965.

The Apollo effort is so wide spread that it cannot be handled by a handful of companies. The State Value of Property $1.4 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau reported today that assessed value of all property on local tax rolls in Arkansas was $1.4 billion in 1961.

The report said tax rolls carried 1,224,000 separate pieces of real estate that year, including 377,000 residential, or non-farm properties, and 463,000 pieces of farm property, 325,000 vacant lots, 18,000 commercial and 5,000 industrial properties, and 36,000 properties classed as "other."

The real estate accounted for $843 million, or 59.5 per cent of the total, locally assessed personal property for $309 million and state-assessed property for $265 million.

Real estate in Arkansas was locally assessed at an average of about 12 per cent of its market worth in 1961, the report said, judging from a survey of real estate sales during a six-month period.

Property tax revenue in the state totaled $67.6 million in 1961, or $37.49 per capita, and accounted for 28.5 per cent of all state and local government tax revenue.

Film 'Jason' Is Thriller at Saenger

JASON AND THE ARGONAUTS, Columbia Pictures production starring Todd Armstrong and Nancy Kovack, in Enstman Color, at Saenger through Monday night.

Many a motion picture fails despite all its stars and colorful scenery because it has no real story line. Then along comes a classic like "Jason" and you go down to the theater wondering if the Hollywood production is up to the thundering story.

Well, "Jason and the Argonauts," which this writer saw at the Saenger Sunday night, is the very best. It has two wonderful young stars, Todd Armstrong as Jason, and Nancy Kovack as the high priestess Medea, in an ancient Greek melodrama that gallops from start to finish.

Jason's search for the golden fleece is a legend known to every school child. But this skillful motion picture gives the old legend not only the expected beauty and punchful action but an extra twist in dramatic treatment. Here the gods on high Olympus look down on the earthbound scene from time to time to see how the heroes and the villains are getting along.

And you meet the strangest monsters and the most frightful ghosts as you follow Jason in his search to the far ends of the earth.

The production has a nostalgic beauty that makes you wonder who created it. He is Geoffrey Drake, the man who did the designing for "Guns of Navarone" one of the most successful pictures in history — and his sure touch is impressed on "Jason and the Argonauts." — Washburn

Auto Wreck, Fight Probed by Police

An auto accident, some watermelons and a free-for-all fight was investigated out on the Spring Hill road about 2:30 a.m. Sunday and charges will be filed against George Perry and Tillman Bobo.

Here's the story as told by State Policeman W. T. Brewster who investigated. Perry and Bobo were together and while Perry was in a watermelon patch Bobo decided to try out the 1956 model Chevrolet that Perry had purchased only a few hours before.

Bobo lost control of the car which took to a ditch and overturned several times, practically demolishing the vehicle. Perry left the patch and walked to the wreckage where the pair got into a fight. Following the fight both men were treated at a local hospital and released.

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Griffin said charges, possibly several, will be filed against both men, one involving the theft of melons.

Negro Man Is Hit, Killed by Car on 67

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heads of the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marines united today in support of the limited nuclear test ban treaty provided minimum security safeguards are guaranteed.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Air Force, testified that the military disadvantages "can only be made acceptable" by safeguards previously outlined by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He and the other chiefs made clear, under questioning by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that they would not have approved the treaty banning tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space if they had not been assured safeguards would be provided.

LeMay, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, and Gen. David M. Shoup, commandant of the Marine Corps, speaking in turn, subscribed to this position.

Their support of the treaty, before a joint public hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Atomic Energy committees, is conditioned on comprehensive, aggressive and continuing underground weapons testing permitted under the treaty.

In addition, they said it is based on maintenance of modern nuclear laboratory facilities and programs, a state of readiness to resume atmospheric testing, and improved facilities for detecting any violation of the treaty and maintaining knowledge of Soviet nuclear activity, capabilities and achievements.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara testified earlier in the hearings that provision would be made for these and other safeguards.

As the hearings moved into their second week, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he expects the Senate to ratify the treaty "with a few extra votes."

Ratification requires a favorable vote of at least two-thirds — 66 if the 99 senators are present. There is one vacancy since the death of Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn.

Leaders have predicted about a week of Senate debate after the hearings end. A vote is expected soon after Labor Day.

The treaty got strong backing Sunday from George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to Moscow. Kennan, who resigned recently as ambassador to Yugoslavia after 29 years of diplomatic service, gave his views on NBC's Meet The Press.

DOROTHY DIX

FORSAKEN WIFE
SEEKS COMFORT
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My once-loving, normal husband has become involved with a relative who is married and the mother of two children. We have grandchildren!

But I'm far from being old and still crave love. To outward appearances we are a happily married couple. My husband keeps up the pretense of making things seem like they always were. I used to wonder why women with seemingly perfect mates played around. Now I know.

But that road doesn't appeal to me. I had a lonely childhood, being horn in a large family to a mother who didn't want me. It looks as if I may face a lonely old age as well. Is there a remedy? Thanks for letting me cry on your shoulder. —Sad and Lonely

Dear Sad and Lonely: There are only two remedies to your situation. One is to take stock of yourself and your husband, try to figure out the reason for his straying, then proceed to eliminate it. This takes insight and self-examination of the "worn spots" that commonly show up in the fabric of a marriage of 20 years or more.

Your success depends on the quality and quantity of love you still feel for your husband and the corresponding effort you put into repairing the rift. If you don't value your marriage sufficiently to make an effort to restore it, or if your effort is unsuccessful, your only alternative is to leave your husband.

Retaliation by playing around with other men is a childish reaction.

Tell your husband how you feel and try to find out the state of his heart and mind. His wandering may be the more or less typical behavior pattern of middle-aged men whose romantic egos need bolstering. If his involvement with your relative is no more serious than that, you can easily put a stop to it—not by heavily-handedly laying down the law, but by using the feminine instincts that are every woman's most valuable asset.

You say you "still crave love." So do we all, including your husband. This important question is: Are you giving love? Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Marital Harmony."

Dear Helen: Maybe in writing you, I'm appealing to the wrong department but here goes. For I must write someone. A few years ago I invested in a house to supplement my income since savings bank interest is not enough for an older man with a family. It wasn't difficult to find a tenant. I supplied storm windows, screens, light bulbs throughout, new window shades, kitchen sink and linoleum floor covering. The tenants moved out; missing were all the light bulbs, one linoleum rug, every window shade, one doorknob with lock and the metal elbow from the kitchen sink. The tenants left two broken windows and 10 boxes of trash in the attic. I shall have to repaint the entire house inside and out before it is again in a rentable condition.

What with taxes, insurance and other expenses, I'm hard put to make ends meet. Yet only yesterday someone had the nerve to say, "You're rich. You've got two houses!" Do people think all rent money goes into the pockets to stay? —Landlord

Dear Landlord: It's quite obvious that not much of the rent has gone into your pocket to stay. In our economy there are so many ways to invest money without all those landlord headaches. In renting any house the owner is entitled to ask for references from prospective tenants. You evidently failed to do this. I also father that you had no written lease which, like any other contract, is a protection to both parties. This is standard real estate practice. These printed forms are obtainable in any large stationery store. They clearly spell out all the rights and obligations of both landlord and tenant.

You should have inspected the house from basement to attic while your irresponsible tenants were still "in residence."

Ask your lawyer to write these people requesting full restitution of all items removed from your house. If this produces no results, take your case to court. Aside from recourse to legal action, you have the consolation that all repairs are tax deductible and you have learned a valuable lesson for the future.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

from them about 25 yards by debris. Bova was hurt slightly. Fellin said, but all three were in contact with each other.

The mine, of which Fellin is a co-owner, is at Shepton, in adjoining Schuykill County about nine miles from Hazleton and some 80 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

This is the heart-land of the anthracite coal mining area.

Underground, as one expert has put it, the land is like a piece of Swiss cheese—honeycombed with coal shafts. Pine forests cover much of the ground.

The problem in sinking the 28-inch bore, said Charnbury, is two-fold: Make certain it is accurate and make certain no new slide is started.

"If we put the 28-inch rotary drill in the same spot as the six inch hole will we reach you okay?" Gordon Smith, assistant state secretary of mines who is directing the digging operation, asked Fellin.

"It will be close enough," said Fellin.

After the six-inch hole broke through, John Brios, a friend of Fellin, shouted into the hole. It was drilled to a depth of 331 feet.

"Who are you?" came the reply from the mine. "We're all okay."

Brios leaped back from the hole and exclaimed: "They are alive! I hear them. They're alive."

The dramatic contact with the men brought relief to a vigil which had lasted 134 hours and 25 minutes.

space agency estimates that more than 20,000 firms and 300,000 people eventually will be involved in the project. That's about $2 billion a year in salaries alone.

North American estimates that about half its contract dollars will go to subcontractors and suppliers.

While North American, Grumman and their subcontractors work on the lunar ferry, hundreds more firms are busy developing the hundreds of thousands of parts large and small, for the gigantic Saturn V rocket which in two minutes will consume 2,100 tons of fuel to start the astronauts on their way. More than $1.3 billion has been earmarked for Saturn development in this fiscal year. Estimated cost for each launching of the 360 foot vehicles including booster price, is $100 million.

Before the hardware can be flown, it must be thoroughly groundtested, and launch pads must be built. For fiscal 1964, NASA has requested $800 million to construct test facilities in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Cape Canaveral and other centers.

The biggest construction expenditure in the next few years will be at Cape Canaveral where nearly one billion dollars will go into launching complexes and support facilities. Already, 5,000 construction workers are on the job. Next year there will be 4,000 more.

Why the high price for the great moon adventure?

Walter C. Williams, associate director of the Manned Spaceflight Center, recently gave this explanation:

"Increases in technology since the days of Ferdinand Magellan and wooden sailing ships have not come easily, nor have they been cheap.

"To be able to fly higher and faster, researchers found that they not only needed a vehicle that would give high engine performance, but one that could protect its pilots from heat and cold and provide an environment in which a pilot or crew could survive."

Meredith
Graduated at Ole Miss

By SAUL PETT

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The white people stared stiffly ahead, without expression. The few Negroes in the audience watched somberly in small, self-conscious groups.

Except for a few glances, neither group seemed to look at the other. Together, under the tall oaks, they sat in awkward silence and watched what neither had ever seen before.

James Howard Meredith, a slight man of 30, became the first Negro to graduate from the University of Mississippi in its 115 year history. Without incident, he received what some are calling the $5 million diploma, that being the estimated cost of the soldiers and U.S. marshals it took to get and keep Meredith at Ole Miss.

The scene Sunday bore no resemblance to the night he entered, last Sept. 30, in an explosion of violence and death. Few people at the graduation were aware of the 18 marshals standing inconspicuously on the fringes of the crowd.

In a shaded glen, a short distance from the scene of last year's riot, about 2,500 whites and 40 of Meredith's family and friends looked on quietly.

Meredith shook hands with the university chancellor, John Davis Williams and walked down with okay."

Brios leaped back from the hole and exclaimed: "They are alive! I hear them. They're alive."

The dramatic contact with the men brought relief to a vigil which had lasted 134 hours and 25 minutes.

THE STORY: The stampede of Benson's horses is stopped by Don Alfredo Ybarra, who owns the ranch in Mexico, just across the river from the place in which Benson recently acquired half interest.

XIII

In complete command of both himself and his manners, "Buenos Tardes, señor," he said when I reined up before them.

"Good afternoon to you, sir," I nodded, a little resentful of my own poor appearance.

Feeling somewhat dubious of any extended conversations in Spanish, but doing the best I could with the language, I named myself, mentioning that I had just purchased the land, good will and other assets of the Running Bee from the former owner, Shirl Dorris, to all of which he listened without change of expression.

When I added I would probably be keeping Dorris on as range boss I thought the silence got a little more notable.

Ybarra maintained his courtly composure. "But of course," he said. "And will you use the same brand?"

"I'll use a hoof brand, if any—a Double B Connected. I'm getting rid of those cattle. I'm a horse breeder," I told him, glancing casually across the gaunt, dark-skinned straw boss' shoulder. "I see your boys are holding that bunch that just got away from me, and I thank you for your thoughtfulness."

"Por nada," he smiled, and then in English. "It is nothing. Please allow me to present myself. I am," he declared, inflating his chest, with a gesture embracing the distant shine of red titles, "Alfredo Francisco Ybarra y Palacios—master of Villalobos. All that you see beyond the river is mine."

I couldn't help it. Pomposity always brings out the worst in me. "With such a clutter of possessions to look after," I remarked. "I'm surprised you would find any time left for trespassing."

It was stupid of me, inexcusable really. You could see the slap of it penetrate the armor of his self esteem, the affronted darkening of faces, the wrinkled inspection of the gaunt giant's pale stare.

"My fault," the latter drawled, drawing a hand down over the bushy brush of his mustache. "I wanted to try out a new saddle gun, and all the grouse seem to have flown over here."

Don Alfredo smiled indulgently, having apparently decided while the gawky one was flapping his jaw to credit my unhappy remark to gringo tactlessness.

"This," he said now, indicating the tall one, "is my dear friend and guest, Don Patricio, who collects the costumes—the what you call customs?—at El Paso del Norte."

We exchanged frosty looks from his diploma.

Moses Meredith, a tall, solemn man whose father was a slave, said of his son's graduation, "I'm proud just to see a man get an education. That's all he ever asked for."

Meredith's mother, who wore a white dress and perky white hat, said only, "I got a special feeling."

Almost to the end, Meredith's graduation was resisted by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, who led the original resistance and was cited for contempt for defiance of a federal court order. Barnett, a few days ago, was trying to have the Negro expelled from Ole Miss for violating a university order against "inflammatory" statements. The attempt failed.

On Sunday, James Howard Meredith, holding a bachelor of arts degree in political science from the University of Mississippi, became a fellow alumnus of Barnett.

where we sat in our saddles, a kind of saturnine mirth coldly brightening his stare before, with a grunted "Pleasure," I dismissed him.

"And this," Ybarra said, extending an arm in the regal gesture of a pestiligator about to conjure his most cherished rabbit, "is my daughter, Linda."

Linda rode side-saddle, of course, and, contrary to my original impression that all four riders had rifles across their laps, was not armed. Despite the heat—and there was a great plenty of it, she was voluminously bundled in ankle-length skirts bespangled with braid to match the gold of her hair over which, in the Spanish fashion, piled high at the back with the aid of a comb, she had draped the blue lace of an elegant shawl—rebzo, I believe it was called around there.

She looked like something off a travel folder, somewhat wilted, to be sure, but every whit as imperious and spoiled-brat, disdainful as the remembered glimpses I had caught through the glass. And again I let temper stride roughshod over judgment.

Well aware of my unsavory appearance and pungent aroma after so long in the wilds without proper ablutions, yet determined to cut her down to size, I wedged my horse alongside her own and, in cruel mimicry of mores recently in vogue among our topiosty gentlemen, fetched her hand to my lips in a flamboyant flourish. Ridiculous and childish, as impudent almost as the grin with which I waited to be slapped.

To my considerable astonishment her strange eyes regarded me with pleasant surprise. Chagrined, I became rather more disgruntled to discover my prank appeared to have won a rather widespread approval. Behind his great beak and curly beard even her father's china teeth gleamed in a patina of gratified ego.

He thrust his rifle back into its boot and in a burst of staccato Spanish directed his straw boss to see that my outfit had help with the stock.

"While they are driving the horses to your ranch," he said, "perhaps you will honor my poor house with your presence that we may become better acquainted over a little refreshment. Come

Faubus Might Support GOP

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said Sunday he would support a Republican nominee for president "if I felt the Republican nominee offered greater hope for the country than the Democratic nominee."

Faubus, chairman of the Southern Governors Conference, made his remark at a news conference preceding the open of the conference at this mountain resort.

Republicans have a good chance of carrying Arkansas in 1964, Faubus said.

The Arkansas governor replied, "I don't know," when asked if Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., measured up to his standards as a presidential candidate.

But Faubus added that there was a possibility he would back Goldwater if he got the Republican presidential nomination. Faubus said Goldwater is leading in Arkansas polls.

Interchange to

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The $2.1 million Markham Street Interchange is to be opened late this month in Little Rock, the state Highway Department announced over the weekend.

The interchange will provide access to both north and southbound traffic on the Interstate 30 and Interstate 40 freeway.

Highway Department engineers said opening of the interchange would mark the beginning of the end of major construction on the $37.6 million freeway project. The only remaining portion is to be opened in mid September.

Cat Tail Better Left Strictly Alone

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Four months and $1,000 in medical bills ago, Gene Miller, 14, of Watson Chapel, southwest of Pine Bluff, was taken to a hospital with what was believed to be pneumonia.

Eight days later his parents brought him home after X-rays showed he apparently had not improved. Then he began to spit blood and cough all night. He ran a slight fever.

"Have you swallowed anything?" the doctor asked. Then Gene remembered. He had put a "cat tail," a wild wheat seed, on his tongue, and, at his brother's prompting, had said "kitty, kitty, kitty." The furry seed "crawled" down his throat, into his windpipe and on into a lung.

After a four-hour operation Aug. 9 in which the lower lobe of Gene's right lung was removed, the doctor presented his parents with the cat tail.

Gene is "a little nervous," but seems to be "doing fine," his mother said Saturday, when he came home from the hospital.

Bearden Protests

BEARDEN, Ark. (AP)—The Bearden City Council is protesting the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.'s new billing date. The new date is the 31st of each month instead of the 10th of the following month. Mayor W. H. Brooks said that under the new billing date, the bills of persons dependent on small monthly checks received at the first of each month would become delinquent before they got their checks and that they would be penalized.

Mrs. Donaki Howard Kidd

Miss Mary Virginia Bowden became the bride of Donald Howard Kidd at 8 p.m., August 2, in the First Baptist Church in Hope.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Bowden of Hope. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thomas Kidd of Murfreesboro.

Dr. George L. Balentine officiated at the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with greenery, with white tapers in candelabra.

The organist, Mrs. Hendrix Spraggins presented the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Suzanne Booth who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white silk mist chignon over tulle. From a smooth fitted bodice, with sweetheart neckline and petal point long sleeves, hung a bell-shaped skirt. Alencon lace motifs accentuated the front and a court train flowed from the bustle back. Her veil of illusion fell softly from a crown of speed pearls and iridescent tear drops. She carried a cascade bouquet of white bride's roses.

Miss Marcia Bowden of Tyler, Texas served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Donna McCoy, Malvern; Joan Turnage, Hope; Sherry B. Bowers, Corns; and Renella Hardin, Arkadelphia. The attendants wore peach crystalline frocks. A simple bodice and domed skirt with a split butterfly bow back detail. Their head dress was a circular veil attached to a bow of fabric matching the dress. Each attendant carried a picardy glimmer.

Burl Stuart of Nashville served his cousin as best man. Groomsman were Don Weatherman, Murfreesboro; James Pierson, Jonesboro; David Wylie, Murfreesboro; and Jerry Calloway, Holly Grove.

Miss Mary Betty Boyanton of Port Arthur, Texas, cousin of the bride and Larry McNall of Little Rock lighted the candles.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of blue lace with blue accessories and wore a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother wore beige lace with beige accessories and her corsage was of yellow roses.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Henry Haynes greeted the guests. At the bride's table, Mrs. M. S. Bates served the punch. Mrs. Earl Boyanton of Port Arthur, Texas, aunt of the bride served the cake. At the groom's table, Mrs. Robert

Federal Cut May Be Cue to the States

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—If you get that tax cut next year that you've been hearing about for so long, who is going to spend it—you or your state and local governments?

Congress may pass an income tax cut for individuals and corporations this year or early next year.

But the skeptics say the $10 billion or so which the federal government might thus free would just be a sitting duck for state, county or local governments looking for more funds they can tap by raising their own tax rates.

If so, the end result could be that the taxpayer would end 1964 owing just about as much as ever to one or another tax collector.

One of the big arguments for a federal tax cut—beyond the natural appeal of any tax cut by any agency—is that it will free more spending money.

You will be able to buy more things you want, the argument goes, and thereby you will be encouraging more production, more investment in future production, and hence more sorely needed jobs.

That, in turn, would add a lot more people to the income tax rolls, and the U.S. Treasury would collect more, even at the reduced rates.

But the state and local governments are searching for more revenue to meet the needs of growing communities and to furnish still more services that people like to have (even if they don't enjoy paying for them).

If $10 billion is freed by the federal tax collector, it'll be mighty tempting to other revenue seekers.

It is widely conceded that state were a corsage of white roses taken from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip the couple is at home in Murfreesboro until September when they will live in Fayetteville while attending the University of Arkansas where Mr.

Kidd is a law student.

Bobby Bass

Revival services are in progress at Calvary Baptist Church, 1201 West Avenue B. Services begin at 7:30 each night and will continue through Sunday, August 25.

Evangelist for the meeting is Joe Cervini, Texarkana insurance man and a deacon in First Baptist Church of that city.

Singing is under the direction of Bobby Bass, another Texarkana layman who is a deacon in Beech Street Baptist Church.

The pianist, George Peters, is also a member of Beech Street Church. The Rev. John Finn is pastor of the local church and a special invitation is extended to the public to attend these services.

and local tax rates will rise, or new taxes be devised. These will come out of your pocket, leaving just that much less to be spent at the store.

Will this nullify the boost to the economic growth rate that a federal tax cut is supposed to promise? Walter W. Heller says that isn't necessarily so.

The chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers argues this way: "The boost to over-all demand is the same, whether the federal tax savings are spent directly by taxpayers or indirectly, at their command, by their state and local governments."

He contends that the end result would be "higher output, more

Buddhist Push Upsets Viet Nam Leaders

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong movement, trying to push South Viet Nam into the Communist camp, apparently was caught off guard by the Buddhist campaign against restrictions by the Saigon government.

But now that the Buddhists have brought a full-blown campaign to this country, the Communists are making up for lost time.

By leaflets, radio broadcasts and secretive "agprop" propaganda teams that move among Viet Nam peasants, the Communists are getting mileage out of the crisis.

American sources say the tenor of the propaganda is that the Buddhist matter is yet another attempt by the Saigon authorities to crush the population.

In the Mekong Delta, leaflets issued by the Communist "National Liberation Front" state that "President Diem is not even caring to conceal his vicious attempts to destroy religion, and outwardly is suppressing and terrorizing people."

American sources believe that traveling Communist cadres are the main propagandists for the Viet Cong movement, with radio broadcasts running second and leaflets third.

The United States inevitably has been tied in with the Diem government in the Buddhist issue.

The Communists contend that U.S. advisers are showing Vietnamese soldiers how to beat civilians and snatch bodies.

jobs and a greater legacy of real wealth—houses, schools, productive plant and equipment."

Heller adds that federal tax cut or no, the increase next year in state and local tax revenues is expected to approach $3 billion.

Thought for The Day

The mind itself must, like other things, sometimes be unburdened; or else it will be either weakened or broken. Sir P. Sidney said it.

Farewell Party

On Thursday night, August 15, 1963, friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McQuary honored them with a farewell party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hicks.

Dodgers Also Add to Lead With Two Wins

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hardly a Dodger is left who remembers Bobby Thomson's home run at the Polo Grounds.

The current crop, safely settled in Los Angeles, has nothing but fond memories of the battered old ball yard on the Harlem River where the hapless New York Mets play friendly host.

Dodger hearts grew fonder of the place Sunday as the National League leaders played their last two games ever at the Polo Grounds, won them both, stretched their lead to six full games and salvaged a road trip that had started in a fashion shaky enough to recall 1951, where Thomson homered them out of the flag.

The scores were 7-0 and 3-2, to complete the four-game sweep in the park which will be torn down for a housing project at the end of this season. That made it eight straight for the Dodgers in New York, and gave them a 10-6 record for the road trip.

The San Francisco Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals, locked in second place, were rained out. They will try to get the game in today, before the Cards invade Los Angeles for a crucial set.

In other National League games the Chicago Cubs dealt the pennant hopes of the Cincinnati Reds a crushing blow with a double victory, 2-1 and 4-0. The Philadelphia Phils won their seventh straight, 3-1 over Pittsburgh, and the Milwaukee Braves took their sixth in seven games, 3-2 over Houston.

In the American League, the New York Yankees opened their biggest lead in nearly two years — 10½ games — with 6-2 and 6-4 victories over the Chicago White Sox, while Cleveland beat Boston 7-4. Washington whipped Minnesota 7-3, Kansas City edged Baltimore 3-4 and Detroit took Los Angeles 3-2.

Don Drysdale threw a three-hitter for the Dodgers in the opener with the Mets for his 16th victory. The hits were all singles, he did not walk a man and no Met got past first base. Doug Camilli's two-run homer in the second off-liner. Al Jackson was all the margin Drysdale needed.

Rookie Dick Calmus, a 19-year-old right-hander, pitched five innings of one-hit relief to win the nightcap. Pete Richert, who started, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the fifth.

Warren Spahn won his 342nd career victory against the Colts, as he scattered seven hits and ran his season mark to 15-5.

Yanks Extend Lead by Taking Doubleheader

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It had all the makings of a real tough one. Fourteen games in 13 days, bouncing back and forth from one coast to the other on a hectic road trip covering 7,000 miles.

But for the New York Yankees, it was a pleasure jaunt that turned the American League race into even more of a runaway. They capped the journey Sunday with a doubleheader sweep at Chicago, giving them a neat 164 mark for the trip that carried them to Washington, to Los Angeles and back to Boston before the four-game windup at Cernis key Park.

By whipping the White Sox 6-2 and 3-4, the Yanks built their league lead to 10½ games—the biggest margin they've had at this stage of the season since 1953. The double loss dropped Chicago into a tie for second with the Minnesota Twins, who were trimmed by Washington 7-3.

Detroit shaded the Los Angeles Angels 3-2 behind Don Mossi's nifty relief pitching. Home runs by Jose Azcue and Willie Kirkland helped Cleveland over Boston 7-4 and Kansas City held off Baltimore 3-4.

The Los Angeles Dodgers boosted their lead in the National League and extended their winning string to five games with a sweep over the New York Mets.

West German Player Qualifies

KITZBUHEL, Austria (AP) — West German Davis Cup star Christian Kuhnke qualified for the finals of the International Alpine Cup Tennis Tournament Sunday with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory over Countryman Dieter Ecklebe.

7-0 and 3-2. They are six games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants, whose meeting at St. Louis was rained out.

The Chicago Cubs took a pair from Cincinnati 2-1 and 4-0; wondrous Warren Spahn won the 342nd of his career, pitching Milwaukee over Houston 3-2; and Philadelphia made it seven straight victories, beating Pittsburgh 3-1.

The Yankees, 27-25 on the road before the latest trip, jumped ahead early in both games before the capacity crowd of 44,659 at Comiskey Park and never let the White Sox get too close.

Bobby Richardson had three Yankee hits in the opener and drove in three runs in the second game, which was highlighted by Elston Howard's 4-for-4 performance—a homer, a double, two singles a sacrifice fly.

Ralph Terry won his 14th and Jim Bouton his 16th, but both righthanders needed relief help. Ray Herbert and Joel Horlen were the losers.

The Tigers climbed into seventh place ahead of the Angels. Detroit starter Al Koch delivered two hits and drove in the deciding run in the fourth, but gave way to Mossi in the bottom of the inning and the veteran lefty blanked the Angels the rest of the way. Tiger rookie Gates Brown went 4-for-4 with a triple and three singles.

U.S. Team Defeats the Mexicans

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United States Davis Cup team, 4-1 winners over a strong Mexico team in the American Zone semifinals of the international competition, is considered Australian-bound.

The experts had predicted that the winner of the matches at the Los Angeles tennis club would eventually make the challenge round with the perennial Australian champions.

With the emergence of Dennis Ralston as a new giant of U.S. tennis, the experts are more convinced than ever.

Ralston, once the terrible-tempered question mark of the Davis Cuppers and last year's goat in the U.S. loss to Mexico, was the hero of the 1963 victory.

After Rafael Osuna, the Mexican ace, upset top-rated Chuck McKinley in Friday's opening singles match, Ralston conquered Antonio Palafox to give the United States a 1-1 split.

Then the steady, solid play of Ralston earned the U.S. team the key doubles win over the favored Mexican team of Osuna and Palafox, the Wimbledon champions.

And on Sunday, Ralston gave fans the finest exhibition of amateur tennis seen here in years as he beat Osuna 6-1, 6-3, 7-5. The win, which gave the Americans a 3-1 edge, clinched the competition.

McKinley beat Palafox 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 in the finale.

Osuna, forced to carry the load for Mexico, played brilliantly in beating McKinley. But he couldn't do it all in the doubles, and was pressured off balance by the relentless Ralston on Sunday.

Osuna and Ralston room together at the University of Southern California. They led USC to the NCAA doubles title and in 1960 won the Wimbledon doubles title.

Casper Makes Comeback at Hartford

By LOU BLACK

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — For three months, Billy Casper, a round man from Bonita, Calif., suffered pain and anxiety from a hand injury.

In the final round of the Tournament of Champions on May 5, he put his 210 pounds into a drive. Something gave. He found himself with an inflamed tendon sheath in his left hand.

For many weeks since the accident, Casper wasn't able to grip a golf club. The 32-year-old Californian, a former U.S. Open champion, wondered whether his golf career had ended.

But one day the hand began to respond to medical treatment and after a few practice sessions, he accepted a challenge to play Jack Nicklaus in an exhibition. The hand hurt a little, but he shot a 68.

Deciding to test the hand in PGA tournament play again, he entered the $40,000 Insurance City Open and won top money, $6,400. The tourney ended Sunday.

Casper, with a 13-under par 271, downed big George Bayer, the third round leader, by a stroke. Wes Ellis, who set the pace in the first and second rounds, was third with 275, and Doug Ford was fourth with 277.

The victory brought Billy's career earnings to $272,229. Bayer collected $3,600, Ellis $2,500 and Ford $2,200.

Jack Nicklaus, the PGA and Masters champ, picked up $1,675 for his 278 and National Open king Julius Boros got $960 for his 281.

"I'm for concrete on these new Interstate highways... its durability saves upkeep costs and tax money"

The National Road Test demonstrates again concrete's durability and lasting riding quality.

Concrete can save future upkeep expense on Interstate highways. The recent National Road Test, sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials, tells why.

Concrete and asphalt were tested side by side on 5 loops under the same truck traffic for 2 years. Final ratings of riding quality (chart) showed surviving concrete still averaged "very good," asphalt "fair."

Other road tests proved concrete's upkeep savings: Indiana Test Road, $5,602.02 per mile in 6 years. Oklahoma Test Road, $22,393.52 per mile in 8 years. Concrete means economy!
